Hi Frans Ward

Please take notice of our terms

Below are the key points about edubadges and the protection of your personal data. The full version of the Terms of Use between SURF and you can be found below this text. You must create an account and link it to your eduID before you can receive edubadges. The data controller for the purposes of your account is SURF.

- SURF will create an account for you based on your eduID. This account will continue to exist until you delete it.
- SURF processes the following personal data for this purpose: given names, surname, e-mail address, institution name and eduID.
- If you have any questions about your account and/or privacy issues, please contact us at support@edubadges.nl.

By clicking on -I agree-, you agree to the Terms of Use in their entirety. For more information, see also our Privacy Statement.

Het voor de eerste keer aanvragen van een edubadge

De docent geeft de publieke URL van de badgeclass door aan de lerende.

Deze URL toont de inhoud van de badgeclass (metadata) en heeft een optie om deze aan te vragen.

The screenshot shows a web browser displaying the EduBadges website. The URL in the address bar is <https://acc.edubadges.nl/public/6Rmn2lQGTPapmtApjgkKWQ>. The page features a header with the 'edubadges' logo and a search bar. Below the header, there is a section for the 'Digestion and Defense' badge, which includes a small icon of the badge and a 'Request' button. A yellow arrow points to the 'Request' button. The main content area contains the following information:

Description

There are three main themes in this block: Gastroenterology, Infectiology, Immunology, and Health Law. It forms the bridge between 'Digest and defense year 1' (block 1.5) and the cluster abdomen year 3. Year one extensively dealt with normal anatomy and physiology of the digestive tract and the basic principles of microbiology and immunology. Year 3 will mainly deal with clinical reasoning, differential diagnosis, probability diagnosis and therapy. In order to be well prepared for this, year 2 will focus on pathophysiology. Selected clinical presentations will be used to discuss the most important principles and concepts of gastroenterology, infectiology and immunology, starting from the basic knowledge of physiology and anatomy obtained in year 1. The use of illness scripts (pattern recognition of disease) will be introduced as a basis for clinical reasoning. Where applicable, pathophysiological concepts will be reduced to different mechanisms of disease. Discussing pathophysiological concepts in the context of mechanisms of disease in the tutorial group will be an excellent preparation for clinical reasoning leading to differential diagnosis. Knowledge of the basis sciences is indispensable. Therefore, it is mandatory to refresh the knowledge from the block 'Digest and defense year 1' before the pre-discussion of each new case or task. There will be ample attention to psychosocial themes such as chronicity, ethics (organ transplant) and public health (outbreak management of infectious disease). The major procedure in the tutorial group will be PBL, incidentally in a multimedia approach. Activities in the tutorials will be supported by lectures, practicals and skills training, taking care of the best possible mutual consistency.

Over deze edubadge

The normal working and disturbances of the heart, lungs and circulation are illustrated by means of normal situations and several disorders. In addition, the concept of homeostasis is introduced in year 1 and used to discuss the clinical examination of the heart, lungs and blood pressure as well as resuscitation skills. There is a transfer of this theme to the Circulation & Lungs cluster in year 3.

De aanvrager krijgt een mailtje wanneer de aangevraagde edubadge wordt uitgereikt.

Deze edubadge wordt dan ook in de backpack gezet.
