

Harvest batch size

The batch size is the number of records a repository delivers to the harvester for one resumption token and determines how many request processes have to be executed.

The agreement is that DRIVER repositories must set the batch size between 100 and 500 records.

Using this batch size for all DRIVER repositories will make the harvester operate at optimal performance.
